

CANADA-INDIAN AND INUIT COMMUNITIES QUEBEC

The information contained in this map forms part of the National Atlas of Canada Data Base. The National Atlas is a co-ordinated body of maps published over a period of time providing geographical information on a wide range of subjects relating to Canada as a whole. The maps are normally published at the scale of 1:750 000. Because some areas require more detail, maps are also published at the scale of 1:2 000 000. Detailed maps are included with related information usually at the scale of 1:2 000 000 will be available for reference on open file. In response to special demands, limited printed editions of certain data base maps are sometimes produced. Digital products will eventually be developed from the data base.

NOTE:

No definitive statement on the precise legal status of Indian Reserve or Settlement land can be made without extensive enumeration of particular cases. In general terms, an Indian Reserve is a tract of land the legal title to which is held by the Government of Canada for the exclusive benefit of the members of an Indian Band. The Indian Reserves are administered under the terms of the Indian Act, R.S.C. 1970.

As a result of comprehensive claim agreements based on traditional use and occupancy of land, the administration of Indian Reserves has been transferred to various Aboriginal governments. Many communities situated on tracts of Category 1AN Lands as defined by the James Bay and Northern Quebec Agreement (1975) and one community situated on a tract of Category 1AN Land as defined by the North Eastel Outlines Agreement (1978) have been transferred to the Indian government. These lands are shown as provisional for the purposes of this map, since the related Federal legislation has yet to be enacted. Furthermore, most of these lands fall into other categories of land defined as such by these comprehensive claim agreements has been made.

Indian or Inuit Settlements, although situated on Crown land, are not subject to the terms of the Indian Act.

Other Indian or Inuit Communities represent distinct centres of native population.

No information is shown for Reserves, Settlements or Other Communities outside the Province of Quebec.

Land boundary information for Indian and Inuit Communities is based on data available as of January, 1983.

The Indian Reserve designations as inhabited or uninhabited, are based on estimates of registered Indian population as of December 31, 1980.
